

real message that would reach people. They graduated a few very able people. Some of whom become very able speakers in favor of what they stand for. A few of them have been sufficiently conditioned beforehand that a lot of this rolled off of them. But it is very very sad. That's a thing you see through life so often, you see wonderful things started and then they fail for one reason or another. They get diverted. I think Satan is more interested in diverting somebody who may really do something for Christ than he is in taking those who are already against him.

My last two or three years there I felt that more and more my energies and efforts were just being completely wasted. Of course then the last year, the first semester I had all the OT work in my hands and gave the prophets course and I think they were all pre-millennialists by the end of that semester. Then the next semester they were all turned around. Then when I preached that sermon, and when Kuiper gave a talk in which he referred to listening to me speaking on the Millennial Kingdom of Christ --"Can you imagine me talking on something like that; I would take some big subject like the resurrection or the atonement, etc."

Two of the fellows who were sufficiently conditioned that they were definitely against me, immediately got in touch with me and told me about it. They said, We don't agree with you but they said, We don't think that was right. I had heard not long before that about a fellow in Los Angeles, who had gotten into some political situation. I don't know the details of it. I knew about it because I had been quite well acquainted with his sister. I never met him. He got into this situation and he shot his way out. He killed somebody. He was tried for murder. And not only was he acquitted but the chairman of the jury said we think he is one of our most