

$8000 to get what they could get for $1800 then. I'm not sure. They paid the salaries regularly all the time through the year. When summer came, everybody decided well summer is here; school is not in session so don't give money. The salary is supposed to go on. So we got nothing that summer. So in the fall we were 3 mo. behind in salaries. We had a meeting of the directors. Roland Armes said, We should not feel bad because all bills to outsiders are paid. We don't owe anything except to ourselves! Ourselves meant members of the faculty who had to live and pay bills. I thought that was rather strange logic. But Armes was a great help, and a marvelous Christian man. A tremendous ehlp to us. There were one or two times during the succeeding years when there were things I was anxious to do and McIntire came down on them solidly. In fact once or twice when we were meeting I got so discouraged I said, I said in my prayer, If we never have anything beyond this year, what we have accomplished this year in training of these fine students is worth every bit of effort. And thank the Lord for the opportunity to do that. I think that's a good attitude to have. The Lord wonderfully blessed the start of that school. He wonderfully blessed Westminster (too at the start) and it went bad. He wonderfully blessed the start of Faith. Then eventually tendencies I could see right at the beginning became completely stronger. But we trained a great many very fine people and gave them training and were never interferred with in teaching. The only thing ~~is~~ is I could not get anybody in from outside, unless they were ~~1000%~~ 1000% with him. I could not. We had to train our own people, and when it comes to outside activities or relationships we had no ~~initiative~~ ^{initiative} otherwise. I often wished we had more money. There were things we did without. We got along on a shoestring on many things. But the Lord wonderfully blessed. But it went bad in the end. Those were glorious days, wonderful days. We were free.
