

Of course in those days we got more people from the big denominations than we do nowadays. Nowadays our students are largely people who have been reached in college or in some college organization working among Christians, etc. We don't have that same problem today.

There's lots more to say on those things, but it's an hour now.