

ordinary community will ever be.

There is something about free enterprise, something about that system in which a man has what he produces, ~~xxx~~ results in producing more for the whole ~~xxxxxxxx~~ community. Now, inevitably, when ~~xxxx~~ you introduce this Marxist system, you have to have a dictator. It comes out in Stanley Jones' writings, where he admits it. They who will not fall in line with the system, they simply won't eat. ~~They~~ There is a dictatorship, there is a ~~xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx~~ compulsion. And under the Russian system you see what that compulsion amounts to. I am amazed how many people know practically nothing about what the ~~Russian~~ Russians' system is doing.

The ~~Russian~~ Russian system means that they come at 3 in the morning and drag you out of your bed and shake you awake, simply because you are suspected of not being enthusiastic as you ~~might~~ might be toward it. You are suspected of having ideas which aren't in line with it. It is necessary to work the ~~xxxx~~ system. Don't blame it on the cruelty of the leaders. Blame it on the system. It is that ~~which~~ which is natural to the system, it is the only way they can make the system work, and it is working well as preparation for war, but not as a means of bringing happiness to its people.

I hate to ~~hear~~ hear some talk about the ~~Russian~~ Russians. Oh, if the Russians come, what are the Russians going to do. I hate that. In my opinion the ~~Russian~~ Russians are ~~as fine~~ as fine a people as there are on the face of the earth. And I am convinced of this, that 95% of the people of Russia, if they had a chance to speak, today, what they really want, would throw out the gang of thugs that is holding them in subjection. And any ~~Russian~~ Russian, who has ever spent a week in western Europe, or in the United States, can think of ~~nothing~~ nothing finer than to get out of Russia in the present conditions and get to a free nation. And there is abundant evidence of that fact. The poor Russians are held under a tyranny, a terrible tyranny, and the World Council of Churches would like to fashion a similar tyranny upon the rest of us.
