He said, "You don't have a chance to develop yourself and yo amount to anything in medicine," he said. "If you're interested in medicine, you should stay here where there's a chamce to get unusual cases and to work into them and make a name for yourself in medicine." Dr. Chisholm told how (it was just before he told it to us, just a few years ago) he went up to Toronto to a meeting of the Americab College of Surgeons and there he was ma e a Fellow of the College in view of the unusual operations he had performed MMMM in Korea, and in view of the very unusual work he had done in the field of medicine; and this very man whom he'd known in medical school, and whom he hadn't seen for years, was there among the people who were sitting there trying to learn something from the Fellows, MM and Dr. Chisholm made one of the Fellows. And Dr. Chisholm received recognition in medicine beyomd what this man ever dreamed of receiving. That's enough for a man, isn't it? He's a fine successful doctor; he does wonderful work in medicine; but, my, the Christian work that Dr. Chisholm does would put to shame many a person who does nothing else but Christian work. And I remember when we were having the farewell for Dr. Chisholm, as he was leaving for Korea a few years ago, and this businessman MM of whom I spoke was present at the meeting, and he said to me, he said, "I had to come to this meeting, to this farewell for Dr. Chisholm, because, at missions so many, many, many, many times I've run on to him there dealing with people, dealing with servacemen, trying to extend the Word of God. in addition to his deputation, in addition to his medical work, he was keeping up; he was on the job for the Lord Jesus Christ all the time both here and in Korea.

A medical mank. A man in business. Yes, every Christian should have this compulsion. But certainly the ministery the one who is ordained to the Christian ministry, should have it. Can we say, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel!"? Paul said, "Though I give
