he said, "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world" but then when things went wrong and John was seized and cast into prison if he'd been mistaken, he began to wonder ~~He began to wonder~~, he sent ~~him~~ someone to inquire.

And it's a similarity to this one....but it's different I don't think it is an exact relationship. General.

Question: Answer: Well of course this statement here is definite. I don't know of any others. I don't recall. (John 1) No, I think he is merely showing his miraculous call. Are you the one that should come? Or should we, must we look for another. Well you can see what's happened. See the evidence in the miraculous power of God. How's that? Certainly nowraised the dead to life. Of course others healed. Yes. Healing was common. I talked with a German doctor who was with the American Red Cross at the end of the first world war going across to the near east and they were making a trip through the area and every place they stopped about a dozen people would throng around the doctor trying to get some help and they were moving along, they didn't have time to help at the different places and yet you could run off so he said that he took some bottles put a little colored water in them, a little bit of sugar water or something, and he said he gave this to the people and said now here is some medicine but don't touch it till the sun goes down because he figured by that time he'd be way off somewhere. So he told them that and a month later he heard about the marvelous healing all along the way of this wonderful doctor who gave such marvelous medicine that healed so many things. And some doctors today say
