

in this country and particularly in our colleges and among our educated people in the last thirty years has produced a climate of thought in our colleges that 40 years ago is just unimagined/<sup>it</sup> just impossible that people would take the attitude that you find so ~~s~~ widely taken today, the attitude for instance that the worse thing that anybody could do is to get involved in war. War is wrong and we must never have anything to do with war. Well, of course if anybody would stop to think for a minute, why, why should we have ~~to~~ policemen ~~an~~ why should we have force at all, well, you wouldn't if you carried that philosophy out. We wouldn't have any force and then nobody ~~would like~~ life would be ~~save, and~~ safe and it is getting to be that way now. In ~~ph~~ Philadelphia the number of murders that take place every year is almost beyond belief and the number of cruel ~~t-o~~ tortures and miserable happenings that occur, but the attitude that is being circulated among people is that everybody is just lovely and all we have to do is to treat them as if they are lovely and everything is going to be wonderful, and if you have to have policemen you have to watch out, to stand for righteousness and justice, wherever it ~~is necessary~~ may be necessary ~~x~~ to do so. I think one of the saddest things I ever read in my life is an ~~article~~ article in Time Magazine about a year ago, I mean the last sentence, I tell you first about the first part of it. The first part was the part that made me feel proud to be an American, the ~~first~~ first part told about a town in France which had invited a woman to come over there as the guest of the town and this woman came over and her daughter who is now over 20 years of age, and they came over there and the town of France ~~intertained~~ entertained them, and they ~~said~~ said anything that we have is yours because if it weren't for your husband, we ~~wouldn't~~ wouldn't have a town, and then it went on ~~and~~ and told what had happened. The ~~German~~ German armies had been retreating, and the allies were
