

his associates who spread the light before the reformation began and helped to prepare the way so that when the reformation began people were ready to listen to it, and come to it. I stand for Reformation, I believe in it, I am ready to fight for it whenever I can. I was happy last Saturday to go down to Washington and to march in that parade and to hear those great addresses. I think it's a wonderful thing the stand we are making. But were there a million people there? Were there anywhere near a million people there? If the people of this nation were not so darkened in their minds by the propaganda of darkness that they get in their newspapers, magazines, colleges, high schools and even in their grammar schools, the wonderful addresses Dr. McIntire has been giving over the radio, the great presentations he has been giving, the wonderful rallies would have brought a million people to that. It is the darkness that has gotten into people's minds and has confused them so.

One of my friends was telling me how down there in Washington he got to talking with a young man. This young man said, I have such a terrible guilt feeling; I don't know what to do. He said, I was over in Vietnam and fought there, and one place where we fought our way into a village I found out later that I had killed three innocent people. He said, It's on my conscience, I can't stand it." This generation has gotten stuck into their minds that the worst thing in the world is taking human life. That is a fallacy. The Bible never suggests such a thing. We certainly should not take human life callously. But the Bible teaches that we must stand for what is right and resist evil and we may have to resist it with force. It is a shame that the KJV translators so terribly mistranslated that commandment
