

instead of taxing the poor people. Look at the person that has 20% of his income taken by the government. Why don't we cut it to 15% and tax the corporation more heavily. Well the corporations of any size are already taxed 48%. Practically half of what they produce. And then out of that, what they pay out in dividends, the person who has invested in the corporation ~~again~~ again has to pay maybe 20% or more of that to the government. I'm sure that if the present corporation taxes had been in existence 100 yrs. ago, we never would have attained our present material situation. W must be practical. And when a person ~~says~~ says what we need is to tax corporations more and tax the poor people less, he is exactly the the same position James describes of the man who says, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled, and does nothing for you. In fact the opposite, because he is doing less for you he is injuring you. I rode on a jet plane several times recently, and you get into that tremendous thing there, and you see it going down the path there and then going up into the air, and you think of the skill of the men who are running it. You think of the organization that's back of it. You think of the tremendous organization ~~for~~ <sup>for</sup> making it with its thousands and thousands of parts, and keeping it in shape, and one of them falling down on his job may mean death to you. And yet how very few accidents we have. And you realize what a tremendous ~~accomplishment~~ ~~accomplishment~~ accomplishment has been made and what a tremendously involved and complicated organization of society has been built easy in these last 200 yrs. and how easy it easy it is simply to break it down and to put us back into the conditions in which we were 600 yrs. ago. McGovern said, Let's give everybody $1000. Well, why give everybody $1000? What will that do? That will just raise inflation, and we won't get any more within 2 or 3 months with our extra money than we did before. Why not give everybody $10,000? Why not just have ~~the~~ the Govt. give everybody money, enough so that nobody needs to work. We've all got plenty of money now to buy everything. And you go down to the supermarket, and ~~that~~ there is nobody there to sell because he's got plenty of money, he doesn't need to bother to work in a supermarket. And then when you use ~~up~~ up what's in the supermarket and there is nobody to bring anything more into the supermarket because they are all
