

We don't know what it is, a purpose to accomplish ~~to~~ His purposes in the world; a purpose for the development of our spirits in line with His plans for us. He has those purposes, and though we may feel at times like Jer. Though we may feel like crying out our anguish and our misery, and perhaps it is altogether proper that we do so at times, yet it is God's desire that we like Jeremiah=~~sah~~ shall come through these experience that he gives, and shall see His hand in it all and that it was part of His good purpose for us, and see that we do our utmost to see that our lives accomplish His purposes for us. His purpose for what we do in the world may be a great thing in the case of some of us. Others of us may seem to accomplish little in the work. His purpose for the development of our spirit may be the great purpose. It is a great purpose in the ~~as~~ case of all of us.

Paul said, I keep my body under lest having preached to others, I myself should become a castaway. There have been men who have been greatly used of God in a tremendous way and then have fallen by the wayside. God can make even the wrath of foolish men, of wicked men to praise Him. We cannot judge what God's judgement is by one's results. God only knows His judgment of each one of us. We cannot judge by the results because we do not know the inner character. We cannot judged by the results because we don't know the variation in the ability and natural background God gives each one of us and for which we deserve no credit whatever except as we utilize or fail to utilize the gifts God ^{has} given us. We cannot judge of others before God, because we do not know what His purpose is for thier particular spirit. But Oh God wants us to learn from one like Jer., and from one like Isaiah that whatever the paths through which he leads, whatever the situations in which He places, whatever the variat~~ion~~ inthe abilities, physical, mental, social or otherwise that he has given one of us or another of us; whatever the variat~~ion~~ it is part of His purpose for us and He has His purpose to be accomplished in the world, and he has his purposes to be accomplished in our spirits for our sanctification for the development of us
