And so they took half of the hill and they started ~~at~~ at the top and they dug down till they came to the foundation of that top most city, and they knew just where everything was found and chartered and photographed and studied in detail, all they found in that first city, and ~~they~~ then they removed the first city and they examined everything in the second city, and they removed it and the third. When I got there in 1929 the fourth city had been laid bare over half of the hill, but had not been removed and had decided now to go back and take off the whole other half of the hill down to that fourth area and then to do the whole thing from there on down. And so when I got there one half of the hill was open ~~and~~ and exposed and the summer seasons' excavation was to ~~w~~ start the ~~at~~ next day, so the director had plenty of leisure that day and he took us over the mound and explained everything to us and when we came to this trench and we looked down into it he said to us, Now you see that ~~wall~~ one pillar ~~found~~ down there, well over on this half of the mound where we've excavated we will soon show you ~~that~~ that we have found not merely one ~~at~~ pillar like that one, we have found here hundreds and hundreds of these pillars, and he said, You see how they are arranged, He said there is a pillar standing here and just a few feet over there is another one and a few feet over there is another one, etc. a long row of these square pillars, these square columns, and everyone with a hole across it that way from one side to the ~~other~~ other, and then he said you see this ~~long~~ line of these pillars and about four or five feet over ~~at~~ from it there's another line facing it, and then back of this line and back of that one about ten feet back there is a wall and then another ten feet ~~at~~ back of the wall there is another row of ~~piece~~ pillars and then another four or
