

2/23/81

#8 God's Word in Man's Language

this and a few other such errors to creep in in early days in order to show us that we ~~must~~ must remember that it is the ideas that we compare Scripture with Scripture, that we cannot take one sentence and squeeze it to death. We must Any one sentence might contain an error. When you take two ~~or~~ or ~~there~~ ~~there~~ three sentences in the Scripture and you find the same thing taught you can be sure that it is what God intended us to have. The ~~word~~ word as given The expression of the voice makes a big difference in the understanding and the meaning. This is not shown in writing ordinarily. (nc) --so In ~~IN~~ ancient writing there ~~was~~ were very few with any punctuation marks. There are a number of ~~xxx~~ cases where is clear tht something is a question, even though it is not marked. You said that someone is going to visit the seminary and you say, "He will come tomorrow." That has one meaning. However, if you told me should tell me, "He is coming," I might say, "He/~~will~~ ~~come~~ tomorrow?" You either say, "Yes," or "No." My statement would be merely a question. Withoug a question mark written, which was not in the early manuscripts, you have to tell ~~from~~ from context

GROUP