

how he had not wasted his time in thinking about ultimate objectives, but had always tried to do the best job he could in the position where he found himself, and to think of the what he could do to train himself so as to be able ready to take on the next higher position and to show himself worthy of this such ~~xxx~~ an advancement. The idea, "Hitch your wagon to a star," is far better than, "Grovel in the dust," but the important thing, as Mr. Storey Story ^{pointed} /~~points~~ out, is the doing well in the particular situation in which one finds one's ~~self~~ self, and looking ahead as far as there is value in thinking. The other day, as I was walking, I thought of these matters in relation to a man's place on earth. As I thought of it, it seemed seems to me that the most important thing for man on earth is to realize the great Creator and one's relation to Him. This subject of course could be taken in the broadest sense as covering most almost everything, but I am thinking of it now in a narrower sense. The most important ~~thing~~ thing for each of us to do as we try to live and survive ~~on~~ on this earth, is to realize that our personal survival, and our little pleasures are not a thousandth as important ~~as~~ as the matter of our relation to God. God has created us for a purpose. God has placed us here for a purpose. God has a great moral law of which all men fall short. For us to repent of our errors and failures and seek His wisdom and His will, for us to seek to grow into the type of person that He wants us to be, for us to show kindness and love to all that ~~in~~ (insects?) whom (?) He has created, is the primary function of man. Jesus expressed it as the first and great commandment. The first and great commandment is, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, thy soul, and mind." This is certainly the first vital duty for every human being, and whatever we can do to bring people to realize this is of tremendous importance. This is the first duty of man, the first and great commandment, to seek to do God's will and make our lives count for Him. Now, what is the second most important matter as far as man's life on earth is concerned. The second is the relation to the LJC°. ~~It~~ (The second is like unto it(?)) In a way this could be subsumed under the first, yet it assumes so great an importance in the life of a
