

- 1    Beginnings.    Gen. 1:1
     Harvard professor and the "little imp in the engine that made the car go." Was there no intelligence in making the car so it would go?
     Marvelous complexity of this world
     Clever use of the word "evolution" to deceive people

- 2            Ought to be called the accident theory Complexity of the human body
     Tiny cell contains all the directions for making a complete person
     Description of the marvelous complexity of the human body
     God is in the beginning of creation
     God is in the beginning of the Bible

- 3    Bible not a complete repository of all kinds of knowledge
     Whatever it touches on is dependable

     Jer. 10:12; 51:15; Isa. 40:22 and astronomy
     The red shift proof that the universe is not static but in constant motion Illustration of the rubber ballonn

- 4    God in the beginning of every life that is worthwhile
     Not the God of the Neo-orthodox

     Martin Luther before Charles V--willing to recant his own ideas if not in agreement with God's revelation, but not recant God's revelation

- 5    God is here and interested in all that you do. You are in his presence

     Importance of planning studies so as to get assignments done early before deadline
     Not rush into pulpit when become a pastor and spend last 10 minutes thinking what you are going to say. Plan ahead

- 6    You will have disappointments but realize God controls all things Picture of tapestry in which God is working and you cannot see his perfect plan now but will someday

     Vital truth of God's omnipresence