1 spot where Elijah had declared that the blood of 2 Naboth would be avenged (II Kings 9:21). In 3 addition the fact that Jehu would desire to ful-
 4 fill the prediction was an authentication rather 5 than the reverse.

6 There are also a number of elements that 7 clearly show the divine foreknowledge and con-
 8 trol in connection with Josiah's fulfillment of 9 the prediction in I Kings 13:2. In Israel
 10 several dynasties had replaced one another
 11 during the three centuries between Jeroboam and 12 Josiah. Only divine knowledge could have 13 declared that the house of David would continue
 14 to rule Judah during all that time. Only divine 15 knowledge could have shown that the man who 16 would be king of Judah at this time would bear
 17 the name Josiah. Only God could have known that 18 before Josiah's reign the Assyrian conqueror
 19 would have destroyed the northern kingdom and 20 thus made it possible for Judah, formerly pos-
 21 sessed only about one third as much strength as 22 Israel, to enter the area of the northern king-
 23 dom and carry out the predictions that the man
 24 of God had given. It was part of the divine
 25 providence that Josiah would see the tomb and
