

Heb. Grammar.

Jan. 4/1932

The Numerals

"one" is an adjective follows the noun
two is a noun, used in apposition,
preceding the thing enumerated.

Dr. M. thinks the original use of the numeral is as an ~~adjective~~ a noun in apposition.

Later used in construct, or as adjective.

How did the custom of using the feminine before masculines and vice versa?

The numerals fundamentally abstract,
therefore apt to be feminine.

Three ness, that's horses.

The numeral precedes - hence
is a noun and abstract.

(Many abstract terms in Semitic)

Many collectives,
which are abstract.

Relation of 5 & 6

אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד has caused in אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד אֶחָד which in turn