

...and the false prophet is cast into the pit. Well, then, see we come right back to the days of Isaiah, but there's at least a strong possibility that it's dealing also with ultimate things as what we've just ~~we~~ had. But the (8 1/4) that they don't tell what it is, the Millennium or just historical. At least it's something definitely future to Isaiah's day. Mr. Henry?

stu: I just--I agree with Elmer, I believe that it seems as though it hangs right on here after the Rapture the destruction of (8 3/4) and it seems to be the picture of God dealing with his people in the Millennium, ruling with the rod of Iron (8 3/4)

stu: protecting his people, subduing all wickedness in Israel (9) his own power, all of that.

MacR: (9 1/4) entirely through the Millennium .

stu: Well, why should Jehovah have to guard his (9 1/4) coming in to trample on them?

stu: Well, why should he have to rule with a rod of iron? (several people talking.)

(9 1/4) MacR:

Is the ruling with the rod of iron there, does that phrase refer to the Millennial period or does it refer to the destruction of the wicked (9 1/2)

I'm not ready to say, I'm just ready to ask. I'd like to know -- stu: It means at least that, doesn't it? (9 3/4)

MacR: It seems to be tightly bound with that. Stu: You think it may be more, but it means at least that. MacR: I ~~am~~ <sup>should</sup> inclined to think so.

stu: the trouble is that at the end of the Millennium (10)
