foreteller. But I insist that one who is a forthteller for God is one from whom foretelling is not anything unnatural or unexpected and the reasons for that rest, of course, on the nature of God. I put down four facts about God here which I think bring that out quite clearly. A. that God is a person. God is a person and a person is pretty apt to make predictions about the future. I would think that any person in this room who didn't within the next week make a good many pre-
