

Prophets 9

of course, I ; but he said they kept asking him. "We want to know what we believe. Please give us some doctrinal sermons," and so he said he proceeded to give them some doctrinal sermons, taking up the points which the Christian church believes and explaining them to the people and he was surprised--the crowds became greater instead of smaller and so he said he decided it was a good thing to do and so he kept on. Well now I remember when I heard this man give that, those statements, I wondered right then--that was twenty-five years ago--I said, "Is that man preaching in order to give God's message or is he preaching in order to get people to come to his church?" He may give something that he finds in the Scriptures and absolutely true, that is God's word, but if the reason he is giving it is because it would bring people and they wouldn't be there if he didn't give it, how can you call him a true messenger of God? I was surprised at .

He found it a good thing to give doctrinal sermons .

Well, I don't think in that case that he gave anything that was contrary to the Scripture. He wanted to give the truth. Perhaps some
