

working together. Here is an organization of people for the promotion of the playing of pingpong. And there are thirty members of this, and their purpose is to work up pingpong tournaments and to ~~xxx~~ promote the playing of pingpong. (laughter) Well, the day comes when one of the officers puts out a lot of publicity about a big pingpong tournament that is going to be held, urging everybody to come to this ping pong tournament, which is to be held at a certain place. And then he discovers that one ~~of~~ of the other officers had been busy getting out publicity about a ping pong tournament to be held at the same time at an entirely different ~~time~~ place. The result is that they split their crowd, they divide their interest, neither one of them makes a success. Here are two men using their initiative to advance the purposes of the organization. But the two men, they have not worked out a method of preventing the two men from working at cross purposes. In such a way as to destroy each other's efforts. ~~xxx~~ This is the second phase of govt. To enable people, exercising liberty and free enterprise and free initiative, in doing what they think is best, and most useful, toward the advancement of the purposes of the organization. To do it in such a way that they don't get in each other's way and destroy each other's efforts. It is like the traffic laws. You have to have a certain amount of ~~organization~~ organization in any organization, a certain amount of govt. In order to make it possible that people can work without destroying one another's efforts or getting too much in one another's way. This is much less important than the first aspect of govt. but it is one which has to be solved by every organization. And another reason why it is good to think of this is because you will find in whatever organization you get in, that some people are going to give too much thought to this aspect. I mean that they are going to take certain phases of this, and to them this will be the most important thing, and they are going to get certain phases of this second aspect into a place where they seem more important than the first aspect. And to have the thing thought through so as to keep this second aspect in its proper place, to keep it to a proper minimum, to keep it from becoming too great, but to carry it out properly where it will. It is extremely important for the
