

none to bury her, didn't mean that there wouldn't be anybody to do it, but that there wouldn't be anybody to do it, but that there would be nobody that would be able to do it. The time had passed when it was possible. The scavenger dogs had eaten the body except just these few parts which doubtless were buried. Then they told him, and then he said, "You see how the word of the Lord spoken by Elijah, the 'fishbite, is being fulfilled? ~~The passage says~~ In the portion of Jezreel shall dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel." They ate the flesh of Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel, but the blood of ~~the~~ Ahab which flowed at Jezreel was not Ahab's blood directly but was his blood in the person of his son.

Then in chapter 10 Jehu proceeds to make himself secure on the throne and in so doing he seizes all the descendants of Ahab and murders them and he tells these lies that he is going to worship Baal and ~~that~~ gathers the Baal worshipers and destroys them. An entirely different situation from when Elijah killed the prophets of Baal. Elijah was acting as God's messenger there, as God's representative, in a special there. Here Jehu is being about the ends which were part of God's plan, but there was certainly no evidence that Jehu deserved any commendation for the means he used in performing it. So we have a word of commendation of him followed immediately by a strong word of criticism. Then this is the end of the Israelite branch of the House of Ahab and the beginning of a new dynasty which the Lord predicted which would have five generations.

(Question) That is certainly included, but just how much of these events have been taken out I am sure I don't know. Does he say where that was held?

~~(Question)~~ Where is that? (verse 6) Yes, but that is the murder of the king's son. That is not the prophets of Baal. That is the murder of the king's son. I would think that was what was included on it. But where the murders of the followers of Baal—I think it was in Samaria, wasn't it—I think it would still be included in the general thing but not be the specific thing.

(Question) How many generations would there be in this dynasty? Five including Jehu and Jehu was a rather important member of the dynasty. Any time
