

alumnus were to find twenty-five Christians who would give just five dollars a month for one year, the whole sum would be in hand. Surely this would be a small thing in comparison with the great value which every alumnus has received from the training at Faith Seminary, made available without charge through the gifts of Christian people.

Outstanding among the advantages of the Widener property is the comparative ease with which it can be put in shape for use. Naturally there are difficulties and problems. Yet they are small in comparison with what might be expected in a property of this size. The building is so solidly constructed that even seventeen years of lying vacant has done remarkably little damage. The walls are unusually thick and experts agree that the heat loss is so small that the cost of heating this great mansion should be little more than ~~that~~ of heating our present smaller facilities.

The setting up of a seminary presents many problems, no matter how advantageous the situation. Some of us remember vividly the experiences of fifteen years ago in establishing Faith Seminary in Wilmington. The difficulties now are on a larger scale and yet no greater. Providing for one hundred and fifty students instead of twenty-five means many additional details to which to attend and many problems that must be thought through carefully. The financial needs of carrying on on the new basis are no greater in relation to our present constituency than were those of 1937 in relation to the constituency of that time. Yet they are quite considerable, and all alumni are urged to join us in prayer that God may provide and may give the needed wisdom to all concerned.

Above all, let us give thanks to God for His wonderful gift, and pray that Faith Seminary, in its new quarters, may be a center from which the Word of God shall go out, with ever-increasing power, to all the world.
