

very severe if the $6,000 a year for the five years were counted part of the quasi endowment, though it still would be a definite problem, but Dr. Murray Mr. Clark had the impression that Dr. Murray insisted no part of his salary might be counted as quasi endowment. One day at a Board meeting Dr. Murray expressed himself very emotionally, that the Board of BE wanted to know why he had not been paid $10,000 a year during the five years, and how soon this money would be paid to him. I talked to Phil Clark after the meeting. We were both quite surprised at his emotional attitude. This was the first time he had mentioned it. In the Board reports which he presented of finances each year during that time he never made any mention of the of any money as being due to him. It was not counted as a debt or mentioned as an unpaid something due against the seminary. On the other hand he did not actually draw any money during those five years. I was quite surprised He never discussed this with me, and I was quite surprised at it, but I thought it must be that he figures that he has his salary from Bible Evangelism and the money is not coming the way he had hoped it would, and he is just forgetting this matter. However, I was surprised that not mention had been made of the $6,000 that was supposed to go for quasi endowment.

In subsequent meetings When I talked with Phil Clark about this he said, "Does that mean he is asking that the seminary pay him $100,000?" I said, "I could not imagine that it meant that, that it might be that he was asking for the $4,000 a year that had been promised him as salary, and since he had himself recommended that the $6,000 a year be counted as quasi endowment, and that $10,00 be given for executive insurance, which would have entirely disappeared by this time if it had been thus spent.

At subsequent meetings Dr. Murray pressed the point that $100,000 was due him. He did it in a rather emotional way. However, Mr. Clark tells me that if we would give a check for any sum, made out to Dr. Murray, that he would send it back, that he said it must be given to Bible Evangelism rather than to him. Of course we did
