

Then one time I was taking a turkish bath and I tol- the masseur about it and he said, "Oh, I can fix that up," and he rubbed it a certain way and I have never had any trouble with it since and never had to use a hot water bag since that time.

As a child I heard how my father, as he would make his calls in the terrible cold weather, ~~xxx~~ just about each place that he would stop and see someone, they would give him a cup of coffee, and soon he was drinking many cups a day, and ~~he~~ it made him terribly nervous and he had to discontinue coffee altogether for a time, and then to keep it very little. This impressed me as a child and I never tasted coffee for the first thirty or forty years of my life. During the next ~~ix~~ few years I ;rarely touched it. When In 1929, when I went to Constantinople, I was told that Turkish coffee was very good, and I drank two or three cups on different occasions of Turkish coffee there, and rather enjoyed it, but ~~didn't~~ didn't think about it later. ACTually I never drank tea for my first fifty years or so. I used t- say I was a teetotale, drank neither tea nor coffee. Then I was in England for a month in 1947 and they brought tea ~~xxxxxx~~ several times a day and developed something of a taste for it, but not a great daal. I never drank much of it. However, about four years ago I began to find it difficult to realize what I was speaking about when I spoke in chapel. I would get into the middle of a paragraph and it was difficult to know what the general subject was and what came next, and it was often very hard to think of correct words to use. A year or two later I found, when I was meeting with George Clark. jAll of my life I have had trouble occasionally recalling words, but then it was much worse than it had been before. These two things made me feel the need of some stimulant. I had Oh, I should mention that I used to attend Dr. Speiser's lectures for many years at the University of Pennsylvania. There would be anywhere from four to seven of us sitting at a table and he would lecture sitting at one end of the table, and we would all go out and eat lunch together. During the afternoon I had the most terrible time keeping awake. I would get up and go to the window and open it. Then, after a little, when it seemed as if I were going to drop off, I would get
