

statement, with one long word in it, and the rest common words. And then I ~~xxxx~~ said, "What is so-and-so?" And he quoted that. After three or four times like this I strung them all together, to get rid of the long words and just have short ~~words~~ words and actually it was the long string that obviously meant nothing. I said, "Would you say then that God is such-and-such and such-and-such?" "Well," he said, "Yes," he said, "You could say that but I wouldn't say it that way." At the University of Chicago I saw him around occasionally that summer and he would meet in the street and say, ~~XX~~ "Oh, I ~~xxxx~~ was speaking on the radio this morning on prayer; you should have been listening." He said once, ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ "What this world needs is conversion by the Holy Spirit." It sounds wonderful doesn't it? So I asked him, "What do you mean by conversion by the Holy Spirit?" "Oh," he said, "when a person joins a Christina community there is an interaction between his character and the character of the other members of the community and that ~~xxxx~~ is what I call 'conversion by the Holy Spirit.'"
