

there may be after the thousand years. The scripture to my mind doesn't say. (Student).

Yes, actually you can't draw much on a statement like that, because what he is there doing is

His word?

stressing the inviolability of worship, and the (6 1/2) could mean, even if heaven and earth pass away, like ~~way~~ where said, come one, come all, this rock shall fly from its firm foundation . The man was saying I'm going to stand in front of this rock here with my sword and I won't flee from you any sooner than this rock will. It is not a prediction the rock is going to fly from its place. Now Christ's statement may be that or it may be that it is going to happen. The statement doesn't say. Because the statement is saying that its (7) is so strong that he would sooner think of the earth passing away, than of His Word passing away. Now Heaven and Earth may pass away, in fact Revelation 21 says that they do. The New Heavens and the New Earth with the old ones passed away. It could pass away before the millennium, at the beginning of the millennium, or do they pass away at the end of it? We won't take time on this problem. (Student). Maybe they won't actually die.

But if they did die, it makes the king very, very young. But it makes the sinner a hundred years old, and it says they will be accursed. Well that certainly implies that there will be those there who have not accepted Christ. Even if the forces of these is stopped so that there is no death among them, (8) Mr. says it is entirely possible that there is no death during the thousand years period, but there certainly will be at the end of the thousand years period. (Student). II Peter 3:9 says - 3:4, Where is the promise of His coming? For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. But Peter goes on and says, when they say this they forget the great flood in ancient times. God destroys that world. The ancient world was destroyed by a flood. It perished.

The world that then was perished. Now Peter says, if God caused that world to perish, He can cause this world to perish too, if He chose too, but ~~He~~ he said, this world will perish not by a flood but by fire. The elements will melt with fervent heat. The earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. That may be a very excellent description of a great explosion of hydrogen bombs at the end of this age. We don't know. Or it may describe
