

we have and fears we have we try to blot out of consciousness instead of facing them, and seeing what they really amount to. And Brewer was right, that in these three cases ~~ix~~ it was not sex at all. Because in the case of the woman who fell in love with her employer, the difficulty was he was in a higher social level, and he wouldn't look at her, and when she faced the problem, and realized there was nothing so terrible in her feeling that way, it was just impossible she could forget about it, and as far as he was concerned, he wasn't interested in her, and she could just put it out of her mind, and face the fact, she got over her hysteria. And the Freud put his finger on the fact that if a great number of cases sex is the problem that causes us trouble. And Freud, I think, is right (of) that extent, that it is one of the things. John brought this out very clearly. I John, he says all that is in the world, "the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eye, and the pride of life, is not of the ~~father~~ Father, but is of the world." And these things are in our hearts, and they are there, and they pester, and they work, and they upset us, and if we can face them and bring them before the Lord, and root them out, we avoid not only the direct sin with they involve, and^{to} which they can lead, but the harmful effects that they have upon us. Now Freud doubtless helped many many people, in whom some aspect of sex was the thing that was disturbing them, and upsetting them. But soon he gathered other people around him who were interested in his attempts to help people who were having nervous trouble, and one of them, Dr. Alfred Adler, after a few years, after a while working with Freud, refused to admit Freud's theory that sex was at the bottom of practically every difficulty, and Adler had a different theory. He said, We all over compensate for our inferiority, and he advanced the idea of the inferiority complex. And Freud and the group listened to Adler, and had a vote, and voted he was wrong, and they expelled him from their group, and then they did the same with two other men, one of whom said ~~ix~~ it was aggressive feelings of pride....6....for yourself. They ruled him out. And Freud said, little men, pygmies standing on the shoulders of a giant can see a long
