

As you read Charles Coulson's book you can't help but be impressed with the wonderful way in which he was saved. But I think you can be just as much impressed with the way the man who led him to the Lord, who happened to be Chairman of the Board of the largest corporation in New England, the way that this man did not stop there but wrote to his friends in Washington, D. C to look up Charles Coulson and to help him in his early life as a Christian. That is must as important as what we do in leading souls to the Lord.

God has us here to bear fruit unto life eternal. He may keep us here a long time. He may keep us here a short time, but Oh may we so live here that when we come to the end He will not say, Thou fool. but He will say, Good and faithful servant, you have done what I want, you have grown the way I wanted you too and accomplished what I wanted you to. You have had much of this world's pleasure. It is His desire we should, but that passes away. But may He cause each of us to be sure that we have so lived here as to have treasures in heaven.

Let us pray: Our Father, we know death will come to every one of us. We know that death is not to be a time of misery or sorrow for the Christian, but that for the Christian death is the entrance into the presence of Christ. It is a time of rejoicing, a time to be happy that we are permitted to go on to the next stage of our existence. But may we not look back upon time spent in our own pleasure, spent in giving too much attention to the things of this world, time spent in trying to develop something that was our idea instead of rejoice in what was God's idea is for each of us and working hard to make the best we can of what He makes available to us. Our Father, we pray each of us will live our lives in the light of eternity. In our Saviour's Name. Amen.
