

that He had previously created, to show him the need of a different sort of helper. Gen.2 does not contradict Gen.1 in any way, but adds to our understanding of the details of an important portion of God's creative activity.