

During the last 2000 years there have been great numbers of Israelites who have come to know Christ, and been saved. Yet they are a small number in comparison with the mass of unregenerate Jews during these 2000 years. Among these there are many who have studied the OT, and done their best to carry out its precepts and trusted in God for their eternal salvation. It is a bit strange to think of all these as headed for eternal destruction and others with no greater understanding of God's goodness and grace who lived during the
